

WHO'S WHO

OFFICERS..are said to be men who know a great deal about very little, and who go along knowing more and more about less and less, untill finally they know practically everything about nothing...

ENLISTED.on the other hand are men who know very little about a great deal and keep knowing less and less about more and more , until they know practically nothing about everything.....

But what it amounts to is that we a1start out knowing everything about everything. And during our association with others we learn more and more about practically everything.....

In the next few pages you will what we learned and from whom we we learned. There are no stars in this book only people and without them this ship would not have moved and could not have functioned. And this book would not have been possible.....
