

The Divisions

As each new sailor comes aboard ship he is assigned to one of thirteen divisions into which the ship's company is divided. From then on, until he leaves the ship, his entire life revolves within this division — he bunkys in the division quarters, masters at the division parade, and is "turned in" by his division officer. The following section pictures life aboard the Admiral Capps within each of these separate spheres.