

Leyte...
With the tank crews peering confidently from their mounts in the barges, we struck for the beach.
We neared the shore line where blackened trees leaned crazily and gaping holes in the forest attested the fury of our bombing.
"Tank trap," said our cox'n, pointing to where doughboys with rifles and tommy guns crouched behind several tractors perched crazily on a ridge near the beach.

Leyte - - 5 - -

With the tank crews peering confidently from their mounts in the barges, we struck for the beach.

We neared the shore line where blackened trees leaned crazily and gaping holes in the forest attested the fury of our bombing.

"Tank trap," said our cox'n, pointing to where doughboys with rifles and tommy guns crouched behind several tractors perched crazily on a ridge near the beach.