

This twisted, lifeless body symbolizes the sacrifice our youth is making for the liberation of the oppressed. Dying at his post, this boy represents the blunt expression of a Coast Guardsman's duty in war as in peace: "You have to go out but you don't have to come back."

This twisted, lifeless body symbolized the sacrifice our youth is making for the liberation of the oppressed.

Dying at his post, this boy represents the blunt expression of a Coast Guardsman's duty in war as in peace:

"You have to go out but you don't have to come back"