

R DIVISION

These trusty lads were called upon when things went wrong about the ship. But more important was their job of preventing damage and that meant plenty of security watches. Carpenters, shipfitters and smoke-makers did the dirty work. . . . Their feelings were hurt if you called them the "Destruction and Despair Department."

