

DALLAS DEPARTS NEW YORK

The grand old lady waves farewell

Does Daddy really have to go

Our last view of New York

Leaving was difficult but we knew we would be home again. Due to hurricane threats we did not leave until the afternoon of September 9th. The weather was clear and after a few last minute delays that last line was cast off and we were underway enroute Viet Nam.