

04 October 1987, Position: 2-09.8N, 79-46.0W. The day of reckoning is at hand. King Neptune welcomes his eight returning apostles with outstretched arms and multitudinous rewards. Not so welcoming is his greeting for the 200 plus slimy pollywogs who have come unbidden into his domain. Before the sun sets each of these foul smelling creatures will get its just retribution for such folly. Perhaps a few of these pollywogs will at the day's end be found worthy to stand with the brethren of the deep . . . perhaps not.