

13 October 1987, Position: 1-32.95, 85-44.1W. Morning finds EAGLE 250 miles east of Galapagos Islands, sailing full and by making a course to the west. The fresh breeze made last evening's run a good one, and the continued absence of the engine's heat and clatter makes for pleasant nights and days. Winds permitting, we'll continue sailing westerly toward the islands made famous by Darwin's "Origin of the Species".
