

MORE FIRST PLATOON

FREDDIE R. LEWIS -- Epitome of all boatswain mates, first of a great line of Company Commanders, he was known as "Special Liberty Lewis". His greatest accomplishment was taking his sloppy roommate, McCartin, and squaring him away and acting as mother and confessor for the hall:

JAMES J. McCARTIN -- Undoubtedly the most squared away guy in OCS, thanks to Lewis, McCartin always seemed in a world of his own, closely tied to it by perfumed letters. In fact, he has already been fitted for a ring in his nose. His greatest accomplishment was getting through OCS with Lewis as a roommate.

JOHN D. MCGURK -- Graduated from Loyola University in Los Angeles, he rushed to RESTRACEN. Known as "The Philosopher", he was undoubtedly one of the loudest men on the hall. His greatest accomplishment was coming back from Fort Eustis and waking up the whole first floor of barracks 94. John D., like most West Coasters, is a dreamer - he wants a WLB out of the 11 th or 12 th District.

HAROLD C. MESSENHEIMER -- Straight from Cape May where he spent five months hiding from his draft board. Originally from Minneapolis, Harold received his degree in Economics at the University of Minneapolis. He is to be congratulated for keeping McGurk from driving back from the Fort Eustis Officers Club. Messenheimer hopes to be stationed in the Seventh, Fourteenth, Twelfth, or Eighth District - anywhere but a SAGB or OSV.
