

MORE FIRST PLATOON

EDWIN C. MITCHELL -- He came to us from a small island off the coast of Maine, so he's already used to confinement. The Yank was the General of the hall. His toughest job was convincing Nix that the North won the war.

JACKIE E. NIX -- The original Southern Gentleman, upholder of chivalry and protector of defenseless women. Known as "What-am-I-doing-here Nix", he established a second base at 101 Academy Street. Nix is the only man that still believes that Bainbridge is the capitol of the world. His greatest accomplishment was living with a fast talking Yankee.

FREDERICK K. PATTERSON -- Mr. A. J. (Squared-Away) Pat first served as Company Adjutant, then as Platoon Leader. His background includes four years as a guided missile technician in the Navy, two years in aviation electronics with the Guard. He's the father of four children. Naturally, to support his family, Pat is going to Pensacola. Happy landings!

RICHARD F. PRANCL -- An accountant from New York University, School of Commerce, he claims he is allergic to WAGB's and OSV's. Twice the guide for the First Platoon, he has also been misguided by Golden. With his high grades and cadence calls, he is one squared away New Yorker who hopes to return to finance and a supply billet or WLB.

FREDERICK C. SHEER -- "I'm still here" is the main accomplishment of Frederick "CG" Sheer, another dreamer, he requested that OCS be moved to Miami and this book be hard bound. Pensacola ---Standby!!
