

MORE SECOND PLATOON

Ray F. Cawood -- Ray started life at OCS as a member of the honor platoon and our Platoon Petty Officer. He has carried this "honor status" to William and Mary and wooed a coed named "Priss". His dealings with the fairer sex date back to his college days at the University of Kentucky, where he studied Diplomacy - but these studies seem to have failed in his "Hot Pursuit". Ray has requested sea duty on the Gulf Coast and there he will again try his doctrine of hot pursuit -- and only God knows the results!

Bruce T. Collings -- Once a pilgrim, always a pilgrim. Yes, that's Bruce. Hewas made famous, and his picture was printed in the local newspapers for his portrayal of the First Thanksgiving. He was thankful that he and his flowered shirt made it back to the base without being hustled. Bruce has been in the Regular Guard for 8 years and was an ETC before joining us. His future plans include flight training at Pensacola, where again, our pilgrim, will be on the loose.

Rolland G. Crouch -- You can tell Rolland is from Texas, primarily because he talks so fast. Rolland has much to his credit at Yorktown. Namely, he has been instrumental in rescuing other OC's after a Saturday night's liberty and is well known for his ability to live with the Albatross. Rolland has requested a floating unit in the 8th District.

Clay M. Drexler -- Grrrrr: meet the tiger. Boats is the only Albatross in the company, but he's a good one. He graduated from the University of Miami and also has had a few years reserve time. One of his ventures was in the 7th, running 40 boats. He lives for the sea and the Guard, and has the makings of a fine officer. This is reflected in the fact that he has requested assignment to Viet Nam.

George F. Frey -- This tall New Yorker is known as the Count, because of his expert knowledge of the history of Count Dracula. George became interested in Dracula when he was studying the Transylvanian period of history in connection with his major of geology. He is known best for demerit dents in his locker and the way he asks to have everything "Clarified in his mind". George has requested the 3rd District where the CG will gain a basketball player and an expert on the lives and lores of Count Dracula.
