

MORE SECOND PLATOON

J. Frank Gall -- "Your left, right, left, left - Oh hell, I did it again!" That's our third Platoon Commander! Between his talk (after taps) with Big George, and his job leading Hogan's Hoboes, Frank is building himself into a Coast Guard Officer. He has 2½ years of college to his credit and for the past three years has been a yeoman in the Regular Guard. Frank's interests, in addition to acquiring 10 dudes, include golf, sailing and a combination of both which he desires for a duty station and career -- flying!

Richard J. Grant, -- Dick, a yeoman type from the Regular Guard started out to be a seafarer from the start. Dick attended the Merchant Marine Academy and Hartwick College in New York before joining the CG. As you can see, Dick loved the sea - he became a yeoman and sailed a desk for 2 years. Dick was chosen during the first weeks as our Platoon Commander and subsequently served in that capacity for 5 weeks. And, oh yes, he's requested a real seafaring billet: flight training.

Douglas A. Hall -- Doug came into the Guard because of the saying "A sailor has a girl in every port!" This seems to be the case since he does have one in every port from Yorktown to Los Angeles. Doug majored in Zoology and minored in Geology at the University of Minnesota. He's requested an Icebreaker on the West Coast and lists as his hobbies: hunting, fishing and girl watching (in reverse order, naturally).

Charles B. Henkart -- Want to get married? Ask Chuck about the details. He, in addition to his studies, has concentrated on his upcoming wedding more than anything else, here at OCS. Chuck majored in Accounting at Franklin Marshall College and is interested in lacrosse, skiing and sailing.

Paul L. Hooper, Jr. -- "All right, you @#$%*! reserve, shape up!" This is a familiar sound around the Second Platoon and could come from none other than the old seafarer himself. Despite his inborn dislike of reserves, Old Hoops is basically, just basically, a good guy. He has been in the Coast Guard since 1954 and has served aboard 4 of our cutters, been a BM2 and came to us as an ET2. He's done a good job as Officer in Charge of the OCS Canine Corps while at the RTC. Upon graduation, he's going to spend some time at Pensacola.
