

THE INSTRUCTORS

"To see ourselves as others see us"

LT. DAVID L. PEPPE

Author of the best seller, "Authority and Counseling for Fun and Profit", he was the mastermind of Project X, Yorktown's answer to Ranger School and Parris Island. His classes were an interesting facet of our Coast Guard Orientation. The class of 1-63 noted in their yearbook that Mr. Pepple had begun work on his MG. He's still working on it. At Paradise Island he was the only Pepple on the beach.

LT. GARY H. McMANUS

The Atlas of RTC, Mr. McManus was often seen holding the world on his shoulders in Navigation so the people in the back of the classroom could see it. We would have never known we had a nadir if it weren't for Mr. McManus. He was able to combine humor with the heavens which made him one of the more outstanding instructors at RTC.

LT. HUGH D. WILLIAMS

Under his loud voice and hard exterior there beats a heart of stone. He is a perfectionist in the attack teacher and loves detail, i.e. CPA's to the nearest grease pencil mark. His hat has been known to droop, but his spirits are always high, and with his help we were able to mentally maneuver out way through CIC. "Time's up; put your maneuvering boards down and turn your pencils over."
