

FOURTH PLATOON

JOHN B. LEAGUE, JR., Greenville, North Carolina

John majored in Psychology at Furman University. In the pines, in the pines, where the sun never shines - John hopes to find himself -- on an ice-breaker.

HARRY A. MARRINER, La Jolla, California

He attended La Jolla State College majoring in Psychology. Harry is our morale and recreation liason officer with the T. W. A. Stewardess Candidate School. Another quiet guy, he'll go far with the Guard when we take over the Bahamas once again.

JERRY L. MILLSAPS, Maryville, Tennessee

A Transportation major from the University of Tennessee, Jerry's the Fourth Platoon's competitor for the Grover Cleveland Award. However, not being N. F. long enough, he was forced to concede to Mr. C. himself. He hopes to be assigned to Merchant Marine Inspection in Tennessee.

ERIK J. PETERSON, Oxon Hill, Maryland

Erik attended the University of Montana, and graduated with a degree in the biological sciences. Fingerprinting will probably fill his time waiting for the ducks to fly by some place in Greece. He was affectionately known as "The Rabbit" because of his excellent marching technique.

DARRYL K. RENNHACK, Canton, Ohio

Majoring in Psychology at Beloit College in Wisconsin, Darryl has the distinction of being the Fourth Platoon's only guide who did not lead them into Wromley Creek, but the York River is just as wet, Darryl! He wants to be stationed somewhere in the Ninth District, no doubt in Canton, Ohio!

JAMES G. SMART, Gastonia, North Carolina

James graduated from Appalachia State Teachers College with a major in Math. He soon tired of teaching on North Carolina's Outer Banks. Does he think the Grand Banks will be any better? He'll soon find out - compliments of the Eastwind.

JACK K. STICE, Sarasota, Florida

A University of Florida graduate in Mathematics, Jack has been in the Guard since 1956. With Uncle Jack's leadership as Platoon Commander, the Flying Fourth hit new heights of glory, i.e., fifth place in drill competition more often than ever before. Stationed at Pensacola, Florida, the big question is whether Jack will be able to navigate home.
