

EMANUEL C. BALANGIT Oh, Meester Balcengit! Called the "FAT TURTLE," but in reality the Johnny Weismuller of Manila. Sorry, Foreign National, an icebreaker in the Philippines awaits your services.

STANLEY E. BREEDLOVE Ex-Quartermasters do not outrank review officers . . . Right Maggie's Boy? Owes O. C. Smith a new set of cardrums. Best lock your piece before you go on to the next one. But guard belt will lend support.

DOUGLAS L. COX Maintains all roads lead to Philly . . . Mebbe so, when his shell-shocked 578 goes to the yard, A-1 dialed his Philly Filly for verbal assurances of affection—"Amazing!" . . . Once again Douglas will be "Totally Adrift."

RICHARD R. CLARK Tony's Boy, Araar . . . Araar from Sheboygan . . . Where? Going to Coos Bay . . . Where? Vernacular Vocalizations and lost keys lost him weekends, but Moby Dick ruled the waves in water polo.

NORMAN B. DODGE AB-Norm, world's only paranoid monster buoy with a live-in maid. Judging from platoon competition, he'll turn New York upside down. Victim of vicious animate objects, he complemented his room-mate nicely. (See Zimpher)

LEWIS C. DUNN Pioneered the no-demerit OC-ODD watch. Has had experience as an Admiral's aide. Spent last five weeks of OCS strengthening right elbow for Miami auxiliary billet. Pet peeves: Chinese Laundries and late lights.
