

DON R. GERBRACHI Is from Goleta, Calif., and received his BA in physics from the University of California at Santa Barbara. His highness the battalion jock will dazzle district 5 with his prowess in callies.

DONALD A. HAAGENSEN Need we say more of Hoggin' Saggin' than he calls Fruitland, Idaho, home, he has a BA in zoology from the College of Idaho, and he acquired a lasting alias from the first in a series of lectures on ships underway in heavy seas. Rockaway.

PHILLIP O. HAMPTON Flip from St. Louis and Southeast Missouri State College kept all completely in the dark about just what he did at OCS.

THOMAS H. HATCH Big Tom from El Paso also has an architecture degree from Texas Tech and attributes his being at OCS to Mick Eager. Frustrated hundreds by finishing the run just as the pack passed half way.

DONALD R. HAYES From Charleston, managed to get a masters in engineering from the University of South Carolina but could only quiver violently at the mere sight of an officer.

MICHAEL A. JONES Hails from Palis Verdis, Calif., and San Diego State. Bravo 2's answer to Gerald McBoing Boing. He could produce a variety of sound effects at will. Less successful in other areas, he was platoon demerit king.

JOHN G. KOTECKI One of Ben Newlin's favorite people, will have problems besides Polack jokes on the Basswood in Guam. He has an econ degree from Bowling Green.

JOSHUA D. LEHMAN The platoon philosopher, kept all awake with hypotheses and analogies on the program, the war, and anything else handy. Originally from New York, he got an MA in geography (geography?) from Seattle University.
