

Sailing time. The ship slowly pulls away. Goodbyes have been said. The hurried last phone call was made; the last letter posted. Soon land will fade from the horizon and for days to come the sea will be a mysterious and treacherous companion.