

. . . And, after the guests were refreshed with cake and coffee, and finally went back to New York, the ship settled down to the beginning of her military life.

