

If the crew didn't comprehend her great size from her blueprints, they knew, after weeks of running up and down the ladders of eight decks, and going fore and aft over the two city blocks of ship's length that the GORDON was "BIG" spelled with capital letters.

