

For, convoys travel in close formation so that all ships will be protected by the screen of the escort vessels, and this formation is kept through all types of weather.

