

One of the highlights to any cruise is pulling into a foreign port. For the MIDGETT, her first was the first for many of the crew members. On 7 July 1972, the MIDGETT anchored in the Magdalena river at the port of Barranquilla, Colombia. The city of 411,000 proved to be the best stop on the cruise for sight-seeing and souvenir shopping. Just mention stuffed alligator, and any MIDGETT sailor will go as high as one bar of soap, or a white hat.

