

Butchers and bakers and botulism makers: L to R - J. K. M. Cabuag, R. S. Tuel, C. F. Turner, E. D. R. Obedoza, R. D. Halverson, C. J. Cooper, H. R. Pahati, H. J. Peterson, M. Urcla, G. H. Waugh, M. L. Bailey, M. H. Warren

Before, during and after Deep Freeze 77 the supply department produced their normal work load with enough time to allow a little R&R during liberty call in our various ports of call.

Everyone was required to put in long hours before the trip commenced to insure that enough stores were on board to feed and clothe the crew. $400,000 was brought on board to make for interesting calls on various orphanages and Christian Science reading rooms.

During the trip stores were brought on at just about every port making it necessary to put a little extra time in.

Even during periods of icebreaking and ocean transits parts were requisitioned, meals prepared, advancements made and the ever present working of pay records to make sure every one had cash for the next port of call kept everyone more than busy.

During the last phase of the trip we once again began preparing for a busy inport and of course the deployments we all know are coming.