

ET3 Potter keeps on rockin' in the free world.

Electronics Technicians

When the radar goes down or some coaxial cable needs to be replaced, who do you call? The ETs go where others fear to tread . . . the stacks. It may be said that to be an ET, you have to be slightly off-center. Judging by a couple of them, it could be true. More than just movie operators, they provided phone patches and MARSGRAMS so that crew members could communicate with home.

Above: Back to front — TT1 Clinton Hess, ET3 Mike Lambeth, ETCM Eric Whitney, ET1 Robert Kelley, CWO2 Zerbe, ET1 Jean Hutt, ET3 Monika Porter, ET3 Lee Potter, ET3 Tim O'Donnell.

Left: Are you as puzzled as I am?

Top: ET1 Hutt atop the hangar. Bottom: ETCM Adams at his terminal in Main Control.