

Mazatlan, Mexico

Continuing our northerly track, Mazatlan was the next stop. A popular area with Americans, there was a different cruise ship each day. There was a chance that, if you talked to enough tourists, you would find one from your home state. Mazatlan is home to the largest craft shop in the world, the Artisanas Mexicanas. Every night there was dancing at one of the local discos.

Above left: The second-highest lighthouse in the world.
Left: Mazatlan.

School-children peer with sept curiosity into the 6596.

GM1 Flak is greeted by a familiar sight to him.