

A storm at sea can be an awesome and frightening experience. Yet at the same time beautiful and mysterious. As a storm moves in on a ship there are those who succumb to its first sign, a mild rocking of the boat while it plows through 8 to 10 foot seas. Those who's well being would be affected if they were to look outside, always miss the sight that is truly inspiring, that of a sunset just after a storm. To those of you who have missed this sight these pages are dedicated to you.
