

THE FAMILIES WERE TOGETHER AGAIN

There was a lot of hugging, smiling, crying, and kissing that morning as families were re-united.

New babies were presented to their proud fathers and children had grown so much! It was cold in Boston but not aboard Sherman – we had come home.

