

The Marine Guard stood ready to fire a salute, which tradition accords to all men who die in military service

Death came to a German prisoner. Possibly afraid or unwilling to mention his illness.

It was too late to save his life when he submitted to an operation.

Though America was at war with Germany, and enemy U-boats were sinking Allied ships, the deceased Nazi was impressively buried at sea.